

R&D Magazine

Vattenfall Research and Development Magazine • No 2, June 2011

An underwater photograph showing a diver in a dark, rocky environment. The diver is positioned in the center-right of the frame, illuminated by a bright light source, possibly a flashlight or a light from above. The water is dark blue-green, and the rocks are covered in green algae or seaweed. The overall atmosphere is mysterious and scientific.

Gearing up windpower with R&D

Under the surface:
Noise mitigation tests

Breaking the waves with ocean energy

